Subject: Protect California from dangerous methane leaks

Dear President Picker and Director Malashenko,

In the wake of the Aliso Canyon disaster, it is more critical than ever that we take action to protect Californians from the dangers of natural gas pollution.

The clearest path to ensure this protection is through SB 1371, currently before the California Public Utilities Commission. As you work within this framework to evaluate and update utility practices and requirements to minimize methane emissions, please issue strong rules minimizing methane emissions from the natural gas transmission and distribution system.

SB 1371 requires that the technology and practices used be the maximum technologically feasible. It is imperative that the CPUC not allow some utilities to continue to use outdated technology and practices - especially when others in California and the nation are moving ahead with cutting edge practices. Please establish rules that require all public utilities and storage providers in California to use the most advanced technology to find leaks, and require them to repair the leaks they find.

The Aliso Canyon disaster proved that it is time to change the culture of natural gas utilities in California with respect to leaks. And without strong rules that change common practices and require utilities to update their technology to that which is most effective at finding leaks, the culture will not change. Our families and communities are counting on your leadership.

Sincerely,
